

REGNUM CHRISTI

LEGIONARIES OF CHRIST

Regnum Christi Framework for Collaboration

VERSION 2015.1

Introduction

This document sets out the essential role and responsibilities of the Regnum Christi Territorial Committee and the corresponding Regnum Christi Local Committee for the North American Territory. The design of this governance model is built upon the principles set out in the Marco Para La Colaboración issued by the general directorate in March 2014 and has been further refined using the recently issued Manual de Organización. The governance model does not seek to define the governance within the individual branches but rather seeks to achieve effective collaboration among all branches¹ of Regnum Christi (RC) at both the territorial and local levels in their work to serve Regnum Christi in the North American Territory. The purpose of this document is to provide clarity to all Regnum Christi members, and particularly the members of the respective committees as to the roles and responsibilities of the two committees.

General Principles

The following principles inspire and guide the governance of the shared apostolic mission of Regnum Christi within the territory:

1. Communion

Each branch represented in the Committees² will nurture a true spirit of communion by recognizing and valuing the inter-relationships and complementary contributions that each branch brings to bear in the fulfillment of our joint mission.

2. Collaboration

Individuals serving in a governance role will fulfill their role in a spirit of solidarity, assuming co-responsibility for the work of the committee and supporting one another to achieve the mission.

3. Accountability

Individuals and committees accepting responsibility will hold each other accountable. Responsibility will be aligned with capability and authority, that is, nothing shall be asked of someone without also granting the authority and ensuring the capability to achieve what is being asked.

¹ There are currently 4 branches within Regnum Christi, including Legionaries of Christ, Consecrated Women of Regnum Christi, Consecrated Men of Regnum Christi, and the 1st and 2nd degree members of Regnum Christi.

² "Committees" is intended to signify both the Regnum Christi Territorial Committee (RC Territorial Committee) and the Regnum Christi Local Committees (RC Local Committee)

4. Mutual Trust and Respect

Each committee will promote a culture of mutual trust and respect within itself and within the communities it serves, by fostering frank, open and respectful dialogue, and by practicing true listening to understand all points of view so as to make decisions that best serve the mission.

5. Subsidiarity

In the spirit of subsidiarity³, committees will work to ensure that decisions are made and responsibilities held at the lowest level lowest competent level (be it at the territorial, local, or RC section level) with certain powers remaining centralized to safeguard the charism of the Movement.

Governance Structure

The heart of the apostolic mission of Regnum Christi is lived out in the locality by its members through its sections and apostolates⁴. The Regnum Christi Local Committee serves this mission by providing governance support at the locality level under the direction of the Regnum Christi Territorial Committee. The following sections sets out the specific responsibilities for: 1) the Regnum Christi Local Committee, 2) its chair, the Regnum Christi Local Director, and 3) the territorial governing body, the Regnum Christi Territorial Committee.

³ Subsidiarity is a principle that applies most aptly to civic political realities and not to ecclesial hierarchical structures or charismatic families. In this document the term is used loosely and is applied only to the areas of governance common to all the branches.

⁴ A locality is a geographic scope of operations within a territory which generally includes one or two hub cities along with their associated diaspora.

Regnum Christi Local Committee

The Regnum Christi Local Committee is a representative group of Regnum Christi members, Legionaries and consecrated members from a given locality whose function is to direct the common apostolic mission, fostering communion and collaboration among the branches in the locality.
